(New York, New York - January 29th, 2021) - The New York based Pop-Rock band, Xondra has released their brand new double single, “Crush // Ben & Jerry's”. You can find it on all major platforms including Spotify, Apple Music, Youtube, Tidal, Deezer, Amazon music, etc.

“Crush” is about catching feelings for someone and trying to be friends with them when you both know that they make you turn into a puddle on the floor with one look.

“Ben & Jerry's” is about the phrase “fool me once, shame on me. Fool me twice, shame on me”. When asked about the origins of the song, Xondra explained, “I went through a phase where I kept dating men who were takers that did not give me anything else in return. I ended up being angry with myself for not setting boundaries and settling for people that would never make me happy”.

Both songs were co-written by Alexondra O'Connell (singer of Xondra) and produced by Bridgette Hoth (bassist of Xondra), who is known creatively as Seraph.
